I stand in opposition to this proposal. I feel that the Code requirement and the written test should be treated independently.